FLORES TAKES STAND TOMORROW IN DEFENSE

WIDOW OF DEAD MAN WITNESS FOR ACCUSED

Blood Stained Pickets
May Change Story Of
Richmond Stabbing

An entirely different version of the killing of Antonio Martinez in North Richmond one month ago will be told tomorrow in the court of Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado, when the defense presents its evidence in the trial of Leopoldo Flores, accused of the slaying and when Flores takes the stand.

JURY TO GET CASE.
The trial will open at 10 o'clock with the prosecution putting on the stand its first witness. There is a possibility that the defense will also close its testimony tomorrow and the case will be ready for the jury. In the event that testimony is not concluded tomorrow, the case will be continued to next Tuesday morning.

T. D. Johnston, attorney for the defense, indicated yesterday that defense witnesses would prove that Flores after the killing, was chased by several of the picketers in the brawl and was badly beaten by them.

PICKETS IN EVIDENCE.
The famous five pickets, concerning which the prosecution witnesses deny knowledge, were introduced as evidence yesterday. Several of them were blood-stained. Only one of them, a broken picket, is accounted for by the witnesses. All prosecution witnesses are agreed that Antonio Martinez attempted to seize a picket and that it broke in his hands. This picket was among the blood-stained.

Airmail Survey Is Under Way In Richmond

An airmail survey of Richmond is now being made under the direction of George E. Whitworth, manager of the air mail information bureau of the San Francisco bay area.

Whitworth was a speaker before the directors of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce meeting yesterday. He emphasized the importance of air ports and landing fields and expressed surprise when he learned that Richmond didn't possess such a facility.

AIR MAIL WIDELY USED.
"The world is taking to the air," said Whitworth. "Air transportation, aerial commerce has come to stay. Day by day air mail is increasing in volume. The city that does not have one or more airports or landing fields will be a back number within a few years. We are making a study of the bay area for the air mail service and find that many business houses, banks, and commercial organizations have not yet awakened to the possibilities of utilizing air mail as a quick, convenient and saving method of transporting important documents and bonds and such, all of which can be insured and registered." The survey of Richmond is being undertaken to encourage greater use of air mail, according to Whitworth.

POLICE BALL HUGE SUCCESS

The annual dance of the Richmond police department was a huge success if the attendance and the many commendations of those who attended the benefit ball at East Shore park last night may be taken as a criterion.

The decorations were in red, white and blue, streamers forming a canopy. Five large flags were draped over the stage and around the big star emblematic of the police department. Flowers were also stacked about the emblem with two spotlights focused upon it.

Snappy music kept the record-breaking crowd in an exhilarated mood, cheered all the more since the proceeds of the ball will swell the relief fund of the authorities.

Span Franchise Plea Denied

When the Board of Supervisors of Contra Costa county last year refused the Northern California Development Co., a franchise to build a highway toll bridge across Carquinez straits and then subsequently declined to order the franchise grant submitted to vote of the people in response to an initiative petition, it acted entirely within its rights, the California Supreme Court has ruled in denying the writ of mandamus sought by the applicant.

In denying the mandamus writ the Superior Court went further to rule that in its opinion, as gleaned from the records of the proceedings, the Northern California Development Company was never consummated in accordance with the law for the building of such a structure.

POWERS IN NEW HOME.
Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Powers have occupied their new home at 1301 Chanslor avenue. They formerly lived at 643 Fifth street. The new home will be known as "Shamrock Manor."

CONSTRUCTION TO START ON NEW CHURCH

Edifice Will Be Rural
English Type And To House Full Unit

A building permit for the construction of the new Trinity Lutheran church was issued yesterday by City Building Inspector A. J. Hurley and work on the new edifice which will cost approximately $12,000 will be started immediately by David Matz contractor.

ENGLISH TYPE.
The new church, which will be built on the south side of Berrett avenue between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets will be frame and stone construction in the English rural church type of architecture.

It will be a complete church unit containing an auditorium, Sunday school and church parlors, and is so designed that the Sunday school portion opens into the auditorium permitting increased seating capacity for special occasions.

COMPLETE UNIT.
The auditorium, including the raised chancel, will be 36 feet in length by 25 feet in width with an additional length of 21 feet from the width of the Sunday school which will be 30 feet in length. A platform at one end of the Sunday school will permit presentation of entertainments. The kitchen and church parlors are beyond the Sunday school.

A study for the pastor will be to the right of the chancel which will have a width of ten feet. Ward and Blohm, architects of 310 Sansome street, San Francisco, who drew the plans for the structure, chose the English rural type as best fitting the needs of a small church. An unobstructed view in the auditorium is achieved by the use of scissor thrusts to support the high-pitched roof.

Independent Bus Line For East Richmond Is Proposed

Richmond city officials late yesterday held a conference with representatives of a corporation, the name of which is withheld at the present time, whereby plans were discussed for the corporation's furnishing and operating an independent bus line to furnish transportation for East Richmond. Under this plan the corporation would have sole control of the bus line.

An independent bus line service between East Richmond direct to the San Francisco auto and passenger ferry was proposed as a solution of the present transportation problem, by the transportation committee of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce and the special committee of the City Council. Such a report was made

RECORDER FOR SHRINE DEAD

George Henry Smith, recorder of Aahmes Shrine Temple for eight years, and well known to Richmond Shriner, was found dead in bed, early yesterday at the family home, 5771 Broadway, Oakland.

He retired apparently in his usual good health, after a cheerful conversation with family members, and was stricken so quietly during the night that his death was not known until yesterday morning.

Funeral arrangements were only tentatively fixed, subject to change later, it was said. It was considered likely the funeral would be held at 2 p. m. Friday from the Scottish Rite Cathedral, 1423 Madison street, followed by cremation.

Had he lived until December 19, Smith would have been 65 years old. He was born in San Francisco, and spent most of his life in the Bay district.

During his career as a member of the Masonic fraternity Smith had been honored by many of the highest offices within the gift of his associates. His lodge record includes the following posts:

Past Master, Oakland lodge 188; past high priest, Oakland chapter No. 36, R. A. M.; past illustrious master and present recorder of Oakland and present commander of Oakland commandery No. 11, Knights Templar; member Aahmes Temple, A. A. O. N. E. M. S., and member of Oakland consistory, No. 2 Scottish Rite.

Masonic bodies, it was indicated, would have charge of the funeral, which would be conducted with Masonic honors.

ON THANKSGIVING!

Oh, Bountiful Giver of life and of light,
Of beauty and song
We thank Thee today for the triumph of right
Over wrong;
And rejoice that no sun-rift is ever too bright—
No darkness too long.

Oh, Lord, make us meek in our power, we pray,
Keep humble our pride;
For our blessings of life there are those who must pay—
Those who died
That we may give thanks for our freedom
today—
And One, Crucified.

A GOVERNOR'S PAY

Governor and Mrs. Dan Moody of Texas are living on the governor's salary of $4,000 a year. That is $75 a week.

To many a day laborer's family it may look easy enough. But it is never easy to live on less than you are accustomed to, and for the Moody family it is a step down.

The governor and his wife are not complaining, however. They are committed to a "business administration", and living on their public salary seems to them a logical part of it, even if it does make them look stingy.

"We are terribly inexperienced housekeepers," says Mrs. Moody, telling about it in Collier's. "Living on that small salary seemed a lark. Making your first home on any sort of salary is always a big adventure; then you run into cold facts, and the battle begins."

It does seem as if the great state of Texas which fixed its governor's salary at $4,000, 51 years ago, and recently refused to raise it to $10,000 to fix the times better, might be a little more generous with its public servants.

Thrift is a fine virtue, but carried to excess, it cramps one's style and leads to meanness. Some of the more generous and ample virtues are expected in high office.

It is said that the audience broke into tears when Mustapha Kemal finished that six-day speech. Maybe the audience was sad because it had to awaken.

All sorts of farm relief schemes are offered but none of them venture to say will beat the system of early planting and careful cultivation coupled with favorable weather.

Mussolini by edict has abolished the public speech as a waste of time. We trust the senate will take some sort of action about this. It looks like a personal affront.

Will Rogers suggests that Al Smith wait until 1932 to run and let someone else have the democratic nomination in 1928. Wonder if this is Bill's opening move toward getting the nomination for himself.

Paris Sponsors A Barrel Sleeve and Tunice Flounce

"Now Paris styles allow women to move more freely and to present a better silhouette," says Anne Rittenhouse, noted fashion authority writing in the December McCall's. She says: "Tight skirts are doomed. However, they do not begin their fall until they pass the knee of the hips. They are short enough to give their fullness a graceful movement. With this silhouette the skirt is trimmed with long pointed bands known as the American bar."

The fashions for winter have not eliminated the so-called petticoat. It is to continue to give our bodies in the primitive manner. The skirt is not frequent, but belts are ubiquitous. The skirt itself outlines the hips noticeably. The fabric does the work. The skirt from the waist is only worn by the slim woman.

"Lavin of Paris is credited with the trick of changing the style and width of sleeves after they leave the elbow. She got her inspiration from the cushions that Chinese maidens place under their elbows whenever they sit down."

"Evening frocks are both simple and ornate this winter. They are not as lavishly bedecked as they were. But the period frock that Mme. Lavin has upon is at the top of the fashion. Other women are now making it their own special style. Usually it is built of several flounces of tulle and tulle. Always it is longer in back than front."

WHAT YOUR BODY TELLS

As the feet and hands are physically alike the feet follow the indications of the brain just as the hands do.

The individual who is nervous, tapping on his desk or fidgeting with his watch chain will use his energy also by tapping on the floor with his feet. The feet you see in the street express whether they belong to the owners or millionaires, express the traits of the individual.

When the feet are turned out, and this position is the one frequently assumed by the man or woman in walking or sitting, the person is conceited; that is, he is overgrown, selfish, and self-centered.

He is constantly thinking of himself. He is close fitted in money matters. He may occasionally do a kindness for a friend, but depends upon for a favor, if it means inconvenience to himself. The man whose feet turn in is usually accustomed to sitting with his arms folded, his coat buttoned tight, his palms closed, all his outward physical traits point to the selfish, closed mind.

The man whose feet turn out is just the opposite from the conceited person. He will wear his coat unbuttoned, permit his tie to fly in the wind. He is eccentric; that is, his thoughts lie outside of himself. He is not subjective; he is objective. Constantly his mind is reaching out to the other fellow, thinking of him, planning for him, giving to him. He will share his last loaf, or his last penny.

The individual whose feet turn in thinks only of himself. He is miserable and grasping.

GOOD FOR FAMILY

Don't think that you can stop drinking milk just because you are too old to play with dolls or roll marbles. Maybe you have cut all your teeth, and even have your second set, but you still have the very big job of keeping them. Two to four glasses of milk each day, along with green vegetables and fruit, will help to reduce those dentists' bills.

A WORD TO THE WISE

Eat at least two vegetables in addition to potatoes daily, one of these a leafy vegetable, such as spinach, lettuce or cabbage. Eat fresh fruit every single day, and cooked fruit, occasionally.

YOUR MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

By Patricia Lee

Patricia Lee answers questions relating to problems of married life. Names and address should be added to letters as a mark of good faith but will not be published. Readers who desire private answers should enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover cost of typing, etc. Because of space limitations it is not possible to print answers to all letters received, and readers who wish an early reply should take advantage of this special service. On account of the large quantity of mail coming to this department, about ten days should be allowed for a reply. Write to Patricia Lee, care of this paper.

Would you, my friends of the column, could you care for a man who had never been interested in another woman? So many women write such lengthy letters, and sometimes buried way in the heart of the letter something that looks like jealousy is found?

There should be no room for the "green-eyed monster" even in the thoughts of either the wife or the husband should it ever get a chance to develop, for it is a monster in its tenacity once it gets a hold. And in the happy days of before marriage there is no place at all for it! So when you say that you are afraid that your husband or your wife "can't forget" other women or other men that have been in their lives, well, candidly, I want to whisper, "Don't be silly, you are a little bit jealous so get the thought out of your own mind and you will soon see that husband or wife has no thoughts for any one but the one that they have promised to 'love and honor'."

Now, what do you think? Your ideas and mine may not always coincide, and I wish that more often some of our readers who have sympathetic advice to give would write me. Listen to this letter:

SAYS THE WOMAN

Dear Patricia Lee—
I have only been married a little over four months and my husband and I are very happy. I am so afraid that something will come between us, as I think that there must have been other girls in my husband's life before me. Last Sunday a girl called at our house to see us, and she is supposed to be a real friend of mine. While at the house I noticed that she kept staring at my husband in a queer way, and after she left my husband told me that she had winked at him several times when I was not looking. What shall I do in a case like this? Should I let her know that I noticed her actions and ignore her in the future? I don't know how I can do this, as she is an old friend of the family. I went to school with her, and I am bound to meet her often. I know I don't imagine this, Miss Lee, because I know she is jealous of me and tried to "put me out" before. I think she would like to break up my marriage. What would you do?—A BRIDE.

What would I do? Would I let the girl friend know that I was jealous because he was attractive enough for some other woman to wink at him? Maybe it wasn't good taste for your friend to stare at your husband and to wink at him, but what of it? I think that you are so in love that you aren't quite able to see things at their true value just now. You overestimate the true conditions, and watch out or you will make yourself most miserable over nothing at all. If you want to you might say to your friend that you noticed her actions and that you didn't think that they were exactly ladylike or the thing to do, but mask your true feelings in the matter. Why not take the point of view that you are indeed a most fortunate person, to be picked out by such an attractive man, and then be sure that you live up to all that your husband thinks attractive about you!

And here is a long letter that holds a great deal for WOMEN to think about.

SAYS THE MAN
Dear Patricia Lee—

You have solved a many problems for other people that I hope you can solve mine. We have been married six years and have three children. The first six years of our married life were all right, but the last three years have been terrible for me. I have felt lonely and lonesome in our own home. I am happy and carefree outside of my own home, but when I am in the house all I must do is to listen to my wife give me orders and argue about everything. My friends now call me "henpecked." Gee, how I hate that wise crack! In my younger days I have been captain of a baseball and basketball team and always got along with the players.

I have been working under me and got along with them, too. My question is, why is it that I can't direct or manage my own home? My children even side with their mother and won't obey me. My wife complains to me all the time and nothing seems to satisfy her. When I try to tell her a way out of her difficulties, she nags at me the same. She is the best mother that could be, is a good cook and keeps the house extra clean. I have decided to leave her for a month and just live alone and see what happens. I don't want to disgrace my family, though, as I have my children dear. What shall I do?—JACK D.

Well, Jack D., you tell me you have decided to leave home for a month and then ask me what to do. Well, don't do that anyway, not now. It seems to me that you and your wife are both wrong. You must be. It is never one-sided in a family where both the husband and the wife seem to have the attributes that you two seem to possess. Why not put the matter up to your wife as you have to me? Take her into your confidence. (I can see you now saying, "But she wouldn't listen.") She will listen if you go about it the right way. I can't see why you can't try it, anyway. No doubt your wife is so busy being a good mother that she forgets that you should have a little something to say about the running of the house and the management of your children and that you don't need to be nagged. I wonder if your poor wife would not be dreadfully surprised and hurt if you should show her this letter in the column. Do talk it over as partners in any business that was going on the rocks would talk it over and see what can be done about it.

RUN UP AND DOWN STAIRS TO REDUCE

All of us do not have the time or money to take "breath" gymnastics, such as swimming in the pool or running on the track. But for those who are inclined to be ten or more pounds overweight an excellent and simple method of reducing is to climb upstairs very rapidly and to descend stairs very rapidly.

GOOD FOR KIDDIES

There is a type of intestinal indigestion which afflicts young children which is marked by their inability to digest ordinary starchy foods such as cereals, bread and potatoes. Yet the children will often gain rapidly if ripe bananas are given instead.

GOOD MANNERS

Q. Is it correct for a bride to wear white upon the occasion of her second marriage? In this case the bride is a widow.

A. The wedding of a widow should be quite simple. The dress should not be white. It may be of the afternoon type and as dressy as you like, or a chic traveling suit. Only one attendant is necessary and she should be dressed in keeping with the bride's costume.

Q. In eating asparagus should the stalks be taken up with the fingers?

A. No. All that is edible of the stalk can be cut from it with a fork.

Q. When one has not been invited to a wedding is it necessary to respond to announcement cards sent out later? The wedding is a quiet one.

A. A brief note of good wishes addressed to bride and groom is quite in order. The sending of a gift is optional.

LONG BOOTS, GIRLS

This winter we shall all be wearing the smart, long rubber boots and rubber gaiters, which can now be had in every shade of colors.

Dolores Costello in "OLD SAN FRANCISCO" is a Warner Bros. picture production of this novel.

Suddenly every light in the room was extinguished and the door shut and lighted passage 20 feet long in black, black darkness.
San Toy had jumped to the light, with a shout.
Taken unawares, the man had held his breath, but a moment later a broad, momentary light shone upon the light, with a shout.

Taken unawares, the man had held his breath, but a moment later a broad, momentary light shone upon the light, with a shout.

CHAPTER XVIII—Continued
Brandon stepped quickly and seized the edge of the rug upon which San Toy stood, he gave a quick jerk, and the faithful San Toy was spilled immediately on her back. Her tragic strain had been broken. She was deprived of the keen blade before she even knew what had happened to her, but her captors made the mistake of leaving her harmless now that her that had been removed.

In her own way San Toy was not more dangerous than Buckwell and her brain worked faster. With a swift movement she pushed the heavy cabinet doors together. But before they had closed on her, with suffocating death, Dolores screamed in alarm and rushing forward pulled them wide apart.

"Terry, dear! Terry!" she cried. "You are safe!"
Brandon added his strong hands to Dolores' efforts to unfasten the

But every moment took Dolores farther and farther away, and unable to stand the strain a moment longer, Terry grasped the Dwarf by the back of his soiled collar.

"Where did they go?" he demanded, "where?"
"I know! I know!" came in gleeful chuckles. "Come, I'll show you."

And with long arms swinging almost to the floor he ambled to the secret passage that the tong men and white bosses had down to the while before. Examining the door carefully the Dwarf shook his head. "My illustrious brother was wise. He did not go up stairs—but I will make the door stay open so the honorable gentlemen who have helped me gain my freedom can find their way out. As long as this door remains open the one above will stay unlocked. You are free to depart when the mood seizes you."

There were several audible sighs of relief and a half dozen men took advantage of the opportunity to return to the upper world.

"But where did they go?" they have not shown us," insisted Terry impatiently.

"I will, I will." And waddling to another part of the room he rubbed his big hands around the wall, in circular motion, and down to the floor. Suddenly he leaped up in the air and shouted. In his right hand was a torn bit of ruffe from Dolores' black gown. It had caught in the secret opening as she was hastily pushed out.

The men who had remained gathered around the Dwarf as he manipulated a secret bit of scroll work, in the same fashion he had so often seen his brother employ. A black mouth, leading to the hungry jaws of the underworld opened before them.

"I am going to follow," announced Terry.

"I know nothing could stop you," said Brandon, grasping his nephew's arm for a brief moment. "But be careful, boy, it's risky. Come to my office as soon as you can—I want to see you."

Terry looked his thanks and with a wave to the other men faced the passageway that led, he knew not where.

"If I can be of service to the illustrious one," called Lu Fong, "it shall be my pleasure to serve him."

Terry turned only long enough to thank Lu Fong, then he ducked into the tunnel and started the long, unknown quest for Dolores.

"Wait!" shouted the Dwarf. "I come, too. You look for the lady and I search for my peripatetic brother to taunt him with my freedom."

Terry did not wait, but the Dwarf reached his side before they were down the first flight of swinging stairs that started them on their way to the hidden and forbidden depths of the underworld where Buckwell had fled with Dolores.

CHAPTER XIX
The Shrine of the Golden Door.

Beneath the crooked, tangled streets of San Francisco's Chinatown lived another world. A world that was hidden and forbidden, with all the mystery of old China. An underworld—a shadowland—where vice and desire went hand in hand. It was a melting pot of races, with scarcely a trace of wholly sane and true.

WAR THRILLER HOLDS BOARDS AT RICHMOND

A photodrama that is sure to please every type of theatre goer, is it did those who with-saw the first showing at the Richmond theatre yesterday of "The Blue Eagle" Fox Films latest release.

It is a splendidly directed story of love, duty and honor against a background of city streets and then, with the entrance of Americans into the war, a vivid narrative of the men who carried on in the navy.

"The Blue Eagle" shows in realistic flashes how, in times of war, the lives of the common people are affected, the vast mass of citizens respond to the common cause with the best of them in the way of duty and sacrifice.

Woven into the main theme of loyalty is a very sweet, boy-story which holds unusual suspense and has an unexpected in-satisfying climax.

This cast of distinction in the picture includes such screen favrites as George O'Brien, Janet
Gaynor, Robert Edison, William
Russell, David Butler, Philip Ford,
Ralph Siparis, Margaret Livingston, Harry Tomlinson and Lew Short.

Other film features include
"Don't Fire," a Denny Vernon comedy; and the latest Fox News events.

ed ones exhibited yesterday. Only five were adduced as evidence, though nearly twenty were found after the melee, it is said.

ALSTROM TESTIFIES

Arthur A. Alstrom, constable of the Richmond district at the time of the killing, and J. W. Smiley, at that time deputy sheriff, were prosecution witnesses, called to the stand yesterday. They testified to circumstances found by them when they arrived on the scene of the slaying and the location of the principals afterward.

WIDOW TO TAKE STAND

Flores' defense insists that while the defendant may have been intoxicated at the time of the fighting, he did not kill his friend Mariscal. One of the witnesses to be called by the defense will be Mrs. Manuela Mariscal, widow of the slain man, who was waiting for her husband at the home of Flores at the time of the fighting and saw Flores stagger into the house following the killing.

FLORES SILENT

Flores' version of the brawl will be heard for the first time when he takes the stand probably tomorrow afternoon. He has maintained a silence on the whole affair, since the day of the melee.

PHONE BANDITS CONFESS TO 24 BAY ROBBERIES

Twenty-four store robberies in the East Bay and San Francisco have been confessed by Kenneth Styer, 35, and Edward Reed, 33, after maintaining a week of silence.

The pair admitted to Chief of Police Dan Cox yesterday that they had committed two robberies here in Richmond.

They were alleged to have robbed Carl Samazzari, 712 Macdonald avenue, and P. C. Peterson, 314 Macdonald avenue. The business men were called to telephones in nearby stores and while engaged in conversation their tills were rifled.

The men are known as the "telephone bandits" due to their practice of the old deception gag of calling a merchant away from his place of business to answer a phone call in order to rob his cash drawer of the day's receipts.

"Styer and Reed were picked up by San Francisco police in an Eddy street rooming house after an auto used in several of the robberies had been identified by a Berkeley merchant victim.

The men at first denied their guilt and maintained silence until yesterday when, under cross-questioning by Berkeley inspectors, they broke down and enumerated some 24 victims.

The men said their banditry averaged $40 a victim, according to Captain of Inspectors A. S. J. Woods. They were arraigned on charges of burglary yesterday before Justice Oliver Youngs Jr. and a joint preliminary hearing set for Saturday. Each is held in default of $2,000 bail. The complainant is George O. Wright, butcher, of 2312 Adeline street, Berkeley.

J. Harrington, of 1705 Buena avenue, Berkeley. The accident occurred at Pullman avenue and South street. Slight damage was done to the cars.

Wonder Mine Ore Indicates Rich Strike Ahead

News from the workers at the Wonder mine, at Alleghany, in which numerous Richmond citizens are interested, is to the effect that the ledge of ore is now partly mineralized white quartz and partly plumbago, with a vertical depth of 300 feet from surface. This is considered good news by the management, for the reason that every mine of that identity which has encountered plumbago in its ore has made its owners rich. The Plumbago mine, adjacent, has a record of gold production of $12,000,000 in twelve years, and is a rich mine today. The Wonder is getting in winter supplies and will put in a mill in the spring.
